

A Shopping Experience

By Coco Lee

Last week, Peter and his mom went shopping in Tai Tai Market. They wanted to buy some fruit for the party. Peter felt excited because he could eat a lot of food during the party. He asked, 'Mom, can I buy my favourite fruits and have a sleepover in my friend's house, please?' His mom smiled and said, 'Sure, but you must be good during the sleepover or you will get in trouble.' They were happy.

Later, they went to the fruit stall to buy some apples and oranges. 'Let's choose some apples and some juicy oranges to make a salad,' said Peter's mom. 'That's a great idea. Let's choose bananas and some berries too after we bought the fruit we want,' said Peter. They got even more excited for the party.

Suddenly, Peter saw a shady man trying to sneakily steal a young lady's purse right in front of him. Peter was super worried and shouted, 'Hey, miss! There's a man trying to steal your purse!' Peter tried to make a super loud noise to alert her. She heard the noise and screamed for help. Peter rushed to the nearest security guard to help the lady. Luckily, the security guard was able to catch the man and return the purse to the young lady, but there was a twist, the man later stated that he had no money to buy food, also he didn't get paid at his job. Although everyone's a bit disappointed, the young lady decided to help the man out by giving him some money and food.

At last, the young lady thanked Peter for alerting her to realise what was going on. The man also thanked the young lady for helping him out and wished to repay her kindness. Everyone felt so much happier than before, including the man who tried to steal the purse. As for the party, it went better than expected. Peter not only received a ton of gifts, he also earned the sleepover he had been promised. What a happy, lovely and lucky day for everyone.
