

An interesting lesson

On a sunny day, Mary's teacher teaches students facts about frogs. 'Today, we will learn facts about frogs. First of all, you need to know...' says the teacher. All students are happy.

Next, the teacher shows an alive frog to the class. Everyone is excited. They want to touch the frog. 'Now we will look at the facts in detail,' says the teacher. 'Wow! I love frogs,' all students shout. They are very excited.

Suddenly, the frog jumps out of the cage and jumps to Mary! Everyone runs away! What can Mary do now?! 'Oh no! What can I do now? I am scared of animals! Ah!' shouts Mary. Everyone including the teacher feels scared.

'Rrrrr! I will catch you, Mr. Frog. I will put you back to the cage!' shouts the teacher. In the end, the teacher catches the frog! The students feel glad again!

What an interesting day!
